A Photographic Friendship

James Ravilious and Chris Chapman

Edited by Mark Haworth-Booth

A new book to celebrate the friendship of these two master photographers who both embarked on their careers in Devon 50 years ago

With a Foreword by Michael Morpurgo this book presents - for the first time together - a selection of the finest photographs of North Devon and Dartmoor by James Ravilious and Chris Chapman dating back to the 1970s. It also includes a specially recorded conversation between Chris Chapman and James's daughter, Ella Ravilious, and an essay by Professor Mark Haworth-Booth, Honorary Research Fellow, Victoria and Albert Museum

*"Glimpses of a pastoral life to be treasured, the visionary work of two great photographers.
Every page of this wonderful book a revelation and a joy, a memory stirred."*
